

Team Experience: The challenging climbing event

BergWerk.Berlin offers your employees and colleagues a unique experience on an “underground“ high ropes course regardless of weather and time of year. After an initial briefing on the ground you will then get going straight away on our climbing routes with sensory deprivation equipment like blindfolds and boxing gloves. Only by working together and helping each other will you and your team be able to overcome the challenge and reach the end of the routes. Simply an amazing, unforgettable experience!

Overcome personal limits

A fun and adventurous team experience

Sequence of events

After an initial safety and equipment briefing you'll start on the beginners routes to warm up before heading onto the more challenging routes. The group will be divided into smaller teams. One team member will receive handicaps at the start others won't. Deprived of their senses, they must be lead safely and surely through the climbing route. The handicaps will then get swapped around later so that all participants can experience being led, but also take the vital responsibility of leading. Good communication and a coordinated approach are mandatory requirements to pass this challenge. Our instructor ensures absolute safety for everyone at all times. Communication is a must. There is also time for participants, with their new-found climbing skills, to climb the course on their own.
